Seattle Media Ownership Hearing Nov 9, Town Hall

The FCC is coming to Seattle, for its final public hearing on Media Consolidation. The hearing, the last of just six across the nation, will take place on Friday, Nov. 9, 4pm-11pm at Seattle's Town Hall.

This is our chance to have a say as the FCC prepares to rewrite the rules setting how many TV and radio stations and newspapers one company can own.

The FCC is about to cut the leash restraining Big Media power. Their decision this fall could allow one company to combine a city's local newspaper, TV and radio stations under one roof -- all ruled by a single editorial voice.

This week the FCC is holding their final public hearing on the issue, in Seattle.
They've already heard from GE, Viacom, Disney, CBS, Time Warner, and Murdoch's News Corp. -- six companies that together control over half of what we see, hear and read every day. Now they need to hear from us.
